

The motive behind the riot was said to be a feeling a radical agitators that they were getting nowhere in the attempt to control the veterans. Several agitators have been expelled from the encampments, some court-martials that imposed long sentences as well as banishment.

The veterans undertook to continue the intensive lobbying.

COMPANY AT DANVILLE

Danville, Ill., June 7.—(AP)—Two hundred war veterans from East St. Louis, Ill., enroute to join the bonus army at Washington, arrived here today on the Wabash Railroad and planned to leave today for Terre Haute, Ind., over the Chicago & Eastern Illinois line.

They said a hundred more are coming on the next Wabash freight train before daybreak and they expected another hundred to join them in Danville, some from the National Soldiers Home here.

The veterans encamped in the Wabash freight yards. They were well organized and disciplined and in command of an elderly man they address as "Major." Most were overseas caps and some wore in Army uniform.

East St. Louis recently was the scene of disturbances in which the first "army" of bonus marchers from the west figured. The National Guard had been called out to maintain order among them.

DIED IN NEBRASKA

before this last legislative step was completed, centered almost entirely on one tax, that on electric power.

Relief legislation in its handling of relief legislation, with the House of Representatives verging on a showdown on the Garner program.

That section of the Senate Democratic bill allows $300,000,000 for loans to states to meet destitution was approved by the Senate Banking committee.

Whether to accept the drastic procedure sought by the House Democrats to jam through the $2,300,000,000 Garner plan was the question debated in the House.

If this fails, the bill may be laid wide open for amendment; but if it succeeds, the administration will lack any chance there

Court Stars—But Not Courting

"Tres bien, Mademoiselle!" ... This was a congratulatory kiss which Jean Morotra, French tennis star, implanted on the hand of Betty Nuthall English court ace, in Paris. BROOKHART IS BEATEN IN IOWA PRIMARY POLL

Republican primary when he polled 75,000 of the 107,000 votes cast with less than a third of the precincts reported.

The Democratic gubernatorial race was a close one, the lead alternating between Clyde Herring, former Democratic National Committeeman from Iowa, and L. E. Roddewig, former Mayor of Davenport. In 493 precincts Herring had 10,187, Roddewig 9,300 and L. W. House, 5,613.

Wheat to Needy

The House Agriculture Committee approved the distribution of 40,000,000 more bushels of Farm Board wheat and 500,000 bales of cotton for the needy. The Senate committee was due to consider this proposition later in the day.

The Senate Banking Committee decided to report on the loan section of the Democratic bill ahead of the controversial construction features, as proposed by Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, in order to expedite consideration.

One of the other provisions of the bill calls for a public construction bond issue of $500,000,000, to which President Hoover is opposed.

Robinson planned to ask for an agreement in the Senate today to take up the $300,000,000 relief bill as soon as the Senate has acted on the pending economy bill.

Ambulance, Auto Crash; Six Dead

Collingswood, N. J., June 7.—(AP)—Six persons were killed and another seriously injured early today when an ambulance speeding to a hospital with an injured three-year old girl collided with an automobile at a street intersection.

The dead: Richard J. Bloemmaker, 40, Had-donfield; Emma Bloemmaker, 3, his daughter; Policeman John Knorr, Haddonfield, driver of the ambulance; Mrs. J. A. Roddecker, 45; William Roddecker, 21, driver of the automobile, son of Mrs. Roddecker.

Mrs. Edward Smith, Keyport, sister of Mrs. Roddecker. The injured: Policeman Frank B. Tucker, 26, Haddonfield, fractured skull and internal injuries.

The Bloemmaker child suffered a fractured skull in the collision and died several hours later.

WHO ARE THE GAY
WHOM call we gay? That honour has been long the boast of mere pretenders to the name. The innocent are gay—the lark is gay. That dries his feathers, saturated with dew. Beneath the rosy cloud, while yet the beams Of day-spring overshoot his humble nest. The peasant too, a witness of his song. Himself a songster, is as gay as he.—William Cowper, in "The Task."

Hamburger Fry for B. Y. P. U. Enjoyed

The B. Y. P. U. had a hamburger fry in the basement of the Baptist church last evening. Some of them were disappointed because it was too wet to go to Lowell Park but twenty young men and women gathered to partake of the bountiful repast of hamburgers, cookies and bananas.

After supper they enjoyed a recreational time together. Many games were played such as "Does she cackle?" "My Aunt came back from Borneo," and a new one, "I brought back your borrowed property."

A contest between three groups in presenting a Biblical tableau closed the part of the evening's entertainment. The group under the leadership of Wilma Sitter won the contest when they presented the scene of Mary with the baby Jesus and the Shepherds and the Wise Men. Included in the group were Louise Johnson, Louella Bowser, Marie Henson and Stanley Henson.

During the devotional time that followed several songs were sung and Bible verses given. Miss Louella Bowser, the guest of the evening, gave a very helpful talk on the Bible and its place in our lives. A song and benediction closed the evening's program.

All present voted the evening a very enjoyable one.

Silver Anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Frey

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Frey of North Lincoln avenue celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Saturday. It was a very happy day for relatives and friends who arrived in the morning and all enjoyed a delightful picnic dinner at noon. Games and music filled the enjoyable day. Mr. and Mrs. Frey were presented with a number of suitable silver gifts in memory of the occasion. Both are highly respected and estimable citizens and their many friends extend good wishes for future happy anniversaries.

Roy Grobe's Birthday Is Celebrated

A group of friends, members of the Church of God went to the home of Roy Grobe on the Dutch Road last evening and gave him a pleasant surprise in honor of his birthday. He was indeed surprised but soon made his visitors welcome and a merry evening was spent in games and music, and a tempting luncheon was served later. Mr. Grobe received a number of nice gifts in token of remembrance of the day with best wishes for future happy birthdays.

2 tablespoons chopped onions
4 tablespoons green peppers
Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. Add boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Cool and add rest of ingredients. Pour into mold and stiffen in cold place for one hour or more.

Girl Scout Pageant on Wednesday

Wednesday, June 8th at 7:30 P. M. The Girl Scouts of Dixon will present a pageant, "The Evolution of the Campfire," at the Assembly Park ball grounds. The pageant consists of five colorful episodes which will each be portrayed by one of the Scout troops. Much enthusiasm is being evidenced by the participants, as a contest is in progress to determine which troop best enacts its role. The judges at the pageant will be Mrs. R. M. Ferguson and B. J. Frazier.

The program is being presented without an admission fee and all friends of Girl Scouting are invited to attend.

Following the pageant Mrs. T. J. Miller, Jr., Community Commissioner will award the badges earned in Scouting during the past year. At this time nearly two hundred badges will be awarded in various divisions of the Girl Scout program. The local Scout organization is very grateful to the interested and enthusiastic citizens whose assistance made this possible.

Shower for Newlyweds Last Evening

Last evening a miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Heckman, 919 Logan avenue, for Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gordon, who have been married but a short time.

BRIDAL SUGGESTIONS

Silver Wedding Dinner-Dance Country Club Last Evening

Last evening at the Dixon Country Club Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Buchner and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stephenson entertained their families and friends with a dinner-dance, celebrating their silver wedding anniversary.

The guests were seated at one long table, with the brides and bridegrooms of twenty-five years seated at a shorter table, which formed a letter "T". The tables were appropriately decorated with silver candles and silver candelabra, with the centerpiece formed of bridal roses, baby breath, etc.

An attractively appointed dinner was served, followed by a concert by Ralph Grimes and his talented family, consisting of solos, tandances by the Misses Grimes, xylophone solos by the son, etc., all the numbers being well given and much enjoyed. Afterwards the evening was spent in dancing, and at a late hour the guests wished Mr. and Mrs. Buchner and Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson many happy returns of the day, leaving them many nice reminders in silver gifts. Both couples have hosts of friends in Dixon and vicinity.

DINNER HONORED MR. AND MRS. DONALD STAUFFER

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Stauffer of North Dixon entertained thirty-two relatives at dinner Sunday honoring their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stauffer of Moline, who have been married about a week. The Stauffer home and the prettily appointed dinner tables were appropriately decorated with early summer flowers. A delicious dinner was served and a happy afternoon spent afterward, all the relatives wishing the young newlyweds much happiness.

DREAMS OF YOUTH.

Every year, in May and June, an army of boys and girls set out to conquer the world.

They are confident that their diplomas will help them cope with any situation. They haven't a doubt but that they will be able to take every bend in the road, sight banners all the way, and come into a Promised Land.

They haven't tried to tackle reality as yet. Their dreams haven't had a chance to grow tarnished in the struggle. So they start on the uphill road gaily, gallantly, unafraid.

Instructors who are wise in the ways of life as well as the routine of the classrooms will not teach boys and girls, young men and young women, that all battles go to the strong. They will not tell them that every race belongs to the fleet. They have learned better.

Rather, they will tell those who are new in the conflict that there are things of the spirit that mean infinitely more than material success can possibly mean. They will try to inspire them to make lives, not merely a living.

It would be a splendid thing if the far-flung visions that are such a glorious part of youth could span every long tomorrow as they dream of doing. But they can't. The play isn't written that way. There are few all-star casts. The vast majority of May and June graduates must stay in the wings, waiting for cues that seldom come. They are going to be disappointed and restless, unless they have some abiding, deeper interest.

Then, too, the sorry plight of the present economic system may make them think that there are no holes, either round or square, for their pegs, in the industrial structure. If their dreams are entirely materialistic this will be tremendously discouraging. If they are built from firmer stuff they will stand the strain.

Youth is such a buoyant time. It is only right that boys and girls should have a period for dreaming before life brings problems for solving. However, if the loss of a little transient glamour will supply more durable stuff for tomorrow's building, it will worth the cost.

THE KREUGER DISCLOSURES.

The farther the investigation into the affairs of the late Ivar Kreuger is pushed the more astounding the whole thing becomes.

The disclosures that the famous "match king" had personal debts and indirect liabilities of more than $168,000,000 at the time of his death is one of those things that ordinary folk can hardly credit.

Here was a man, apparently, who built up a house of cards on a more colossal scale than anyone before him had ever dreamed of. Great financiers and small investors seem to have been alike in the way they were hoodwinked.

The tragedy of it, of course, is the fact that it is the more or less innocent bystander who suffers the most. A revolver bullet took Kreuger beyond the reach of financial worries; but his debts are very real, and present indications are that many of his creditors will get little or nothing on their claims.

HITLER: THE REASON FOR HIS RISE.

Events are evidently rapidly toward some sort of climax in Europe. Hitler and his Fascists, after all, seem about ready to take hold of things in Germany, and what may happen after they do is a matter for pessimistic speculation.

Right at this moment, the principal moral of the whole business seems to be the way in which it all stems off from the treaty of Versailles.

Hitler is coming to power, not because he has any particular ability, but because he has been insisting, in season and out of season, that that treaty must be revised—and, if not revised, repudiated.

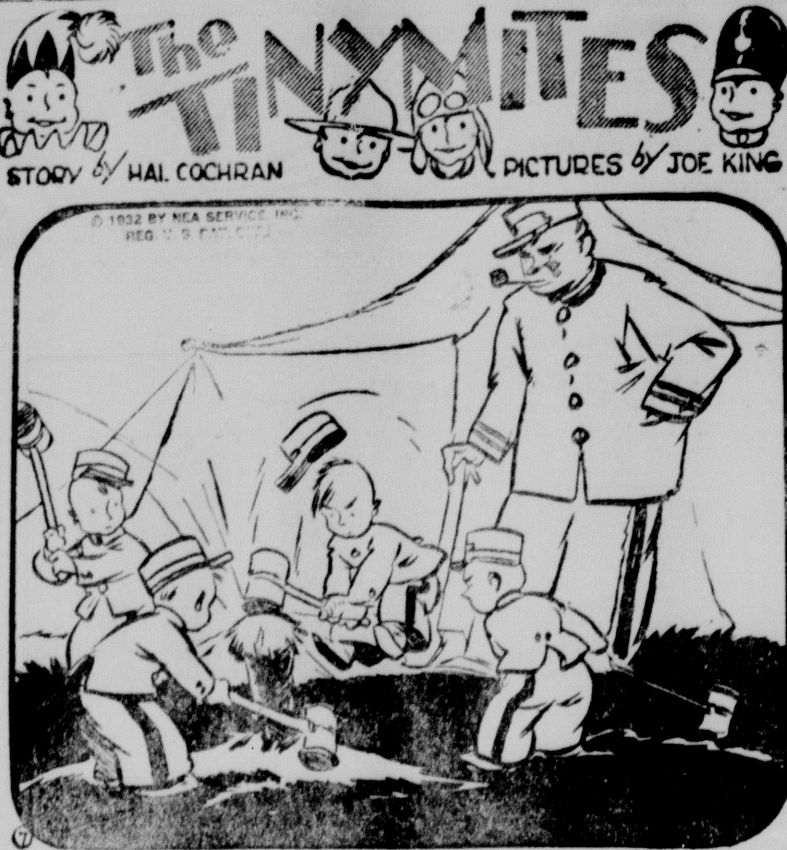

The crushing burden of reparations is to be borne no longer; nor will Germany continue to accept the treaty's assertion that she alone caused the war. Today's ominous crisis was made for us by the men who made that treaty.

Having for many years followed extremely closely the development of America's economic life, I have definitely reached the conclusion that the despondency now prevailing there has gone much too far.—Lord Rothermere, British newspaper publisher.

The old notion that the president of a company was the paid attorney of the stockholders for the purpose of taking as much as possible both from the workers and the public for the benefit of the stockholders has gone.—Owen D. Young, financier.

France must give up, for a long time at least, any hope of receiving payment of that unconditional annuity established by the Hague agreements.—Paul Painleve, former premier of France.

The idea that we ought to Americanize ourselves has not done us any good.—Dr. Adam Stegerwald, German Labor minister.

The rocket made a great big rip right through the tent. "I'll bet this trip is going to lead to trouble," said wee Duncy. "Shall we run?"

"We all can climb right down from here and get away from what I fear. Or maybe we had better stay and hope for lots of fun."

"The latter plan suits me the best," said Scouty. "First of all, we'll rest right up here on the canvas. It's as comfy as can be."

"I'm going to stretch and rest my head. Just try it. It is like a bed. And then we'll climb down to the ground and see what we can see."

All of the Tines tried the plan. It wasn't long until a man looked up and saw the big, long rip. "What's happened here?" he cried. "Why, look! A rocket's broken through. I'm sorry, 'cause the tent was new." And then he jerked the tent until the rocket fell inside. Poor Duncy! He was right near-by and all the others heard him cry, "I'm falling! Someone help me, or I'll land upon the ground!"

They tried to grab him. "Twas too late. He tumbled through at quite a gait. Some circus people saw him and they promptly gathered round."

"Well, who are you?" one man cried out. "And what's this rocket all about?" "I'm just a little Tiney-mite," said Duncy with a grin. "Four of us whizzed right through the air and then we fell. My, what a scare! Our rocket hit your tent! That's how it happened to fall in."

A real gruff man then cried, "Well, son! Perhaps you think you've had some fun, but now you're going to work a bit. So will the others, too!" In uniforms they all were dressed. The man then said, "Now, do your best! I want those big stakes driven in the ground. It's up to you."

(The Tines meet a little dancer in the next story.)

Daily Health Talk

PROGRESS IN EPILEPSY

Medicine's efforts to overcome certain diseases resemble closely the organized tracking down of a savage beast.

It is thus that epilepsy, the essential cause or causes of which still remain undetermined, is being closed in.

The most recent attack made upon this disease has been from the metabolic angle, that concerning the chemical changes taking place in living cells.

Even though epilepsy may not be the result of metabolic peculiarities in the individual, it may be influenced by metabolic factors.

The frequency and severity of epileptic seizures apparently can be reduced by starvation, by feeding the patient an acid-producing diet or by limiting the water intake.

A still more recent contribution to these studies comes in the form of a pellagra diet.

This diet is one lacking in vitamin P, and those subsisting on it for any length of time develop typical pellagra symptoms.

Epileptic patients fed upon a pellagra-producing diet have their number of attacks reduced 50 per cent.

Still another line of attack centers upon the accumulation of cerebral spinal fluid within the nervous system.

There appears to be an excessive accumulation of this fluid in the epileptic patient before an attack, with a reestablishment of the normal balance afterwards.

In these studies effective use has been made of a relatively recent technique of abstracting fluid from the brain spaces and injecting air in its stead.

This procedure makes possible the X-raying of the brain and the determination of the size of the spaces of ventricles.

Tomorrow—Chills and Disease.

If you want to save when shopping, read the advertising columns of this newspaper.

I read in recent press dispatches that a radical socialist deputy has introduced into the Spanish Parliament bill prohibiting the use of Kings and Queens in playing cards in Spain. He gives as his reasons that such symbols have no place in a Republican state. This is democracy run riot with a vengeance. Whether the bill will go through is another matter. We cannot imagine even a Spanish Socialist Government sitting in solemn judgment on such a measure, but we can imagine the deputy being condemned to swallow a whole Spanish onion for his frivolity.

There is very little hope in sight for the poor, blundering city that continues to grope around in the dark, not knowing what it needs or what it is seeking.

With the political see-saw occupying the attention of the reading public, the talk of the actual business conditions of the country seems to have receded considerably into the background.

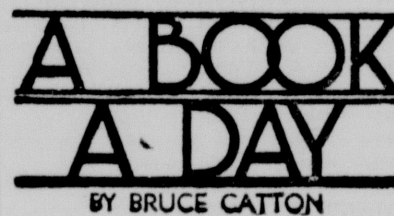

To the residents of each community, local affairs loom much larger than those that may develop in some foreign country.

It is the get-together, pull-together and work-together effort of every citizen that makes a better city.

Some people are born knockers, while others acquire the habit.

You often hear of a city that is considered a live city. Very seldom do you hear of one that has the reputation of being a dead one.

Buyers judge a store by the merchandise they advertise.

TRACES CIRCUIT THROUGH YEARS OF ITS GROWTH

The circus was really invented in ancient Rome. Fights between gladiators, and spectacles in which Christians were thrown to the lions, were the headline attractions, of course—but chariot races, elephants, giraffes and pink lemonade were staple features then just as they are now.

The modern circus, though, began in 1770, when a British cavalryman started giving exhibitions of daring horsemanship in a wooden building in London. A little later he added acrobats to his bill, and clowns, and in a comparatively short time the circus had taken a modern form.

This is all explained in "The Circus—From Rome to Ringling," by Earl Chapin May. If you can still get a kick out of circuses and you deserve somebody's sympathy if you can't—here's a book that ought to appeal to you.

What Mr. Chapin has done is trace the development of the circus from its earliest days. He describes the first circus to appear in America—an affair staged by one John Bill Rickets, an Englishman, who specialized in displays of horsemanship—and then goes right on down through the years.

The first elephant for example appeared in America in 1796; the second in 1815. The traveling circus, carrying its own "big top" in its own wagons, was common by 1830. A few years later the famous Flatfoot's syndicate had its own men in Africa collecting animals for its circus menagerie. By 1856 the Spaulding and Rogers circus was traveling by rail. By the early '90s the three-ring circus was standard. And so on.

Perhaps this gives you an idea of what the book contains. It makes mighty enjoyable reading.

A REAL BARGAIN.

BERT HINKLER

By DEXTER TEED
NEA Service Writer

In a plane so small the wings could be folded up and the plane put in a one car garage. Bert Hinkler flew alone for 12,000 miles. In an air flivver, he was tossed around in air currents—like a feather in a storm—but that was fun. It didn't prevent him from reaching his destination.

Some laughed, though, early in 1928 when he wheeled out his little craft, unfolded its little wings and warmed up the little 30-horsepower motor. Those who laughed didn't know of Bert Hinkler's skill. They were a minority in the crowd that gathered outside of London to see him off on an attempt to fly soo to Australia.

Arabs Lend Aid

That sparrow of a plane carried an eagle of the air. He flew on schedule, on 1,000-mile hops that took him over Europe and away over the burning sands of the Libyan desert. Then something happened. He made a forced landing—and looked around to see a dust cloud coming at him.

A party of war-like Arabs cantered up. Hinkler didn't know what to expect—perhaps death. So, not knowing what to do, he smiled as pleasantly as he could. Curious, the Arabs gathered around. Bert made signs. They nodded their heads and smiled. Evidently they concluded he was like them, a true adventurer.

Then they were friendly. He tuned up the motor and indicated he wanted to take off. Understanding, those bloodthirsty men went to work for him. They helped him shove away and level the sand to make a runway. Soon he was off, with wild cheers behind. And he breathed a deep sigh of relief.

Home

Over India where the heat makes treacherous air currents, the little plane was tossed about like a shuttlecock. It fell and was

TREASON INDICTMENT

On June 7, 1918, treason against the United States was charged and indictments issued against several prominent Americans. These included Jeremiah A. O'Leary, Willard Robinson, Emil Kipper, Lieutenant Commander Hermann Wessels, and the Baroness Maria von Kretschmann, said to be a kinswoman of the German empress. Espionage was charged.

American marines continued their drive on a two-and-a-half-mile northwest of Chateau Thierry, taking Veulry in Prussia in cooperation with French troops. Americans took more than 300 prisoners.

Another Irish ship was accounted for by a German submarine in British waters. It was the Innisfallen, and 11 lives were lost when the ship sank.

ORGANIZED DIVORCEES

Berlin—Divorced women in Germany have banded together in the German Federation of Divorced Women. The first meeting of the organization was held at Frankfurt on Main, and the chief speaker told members that 90 per cent of all marriages in Germany were failures.

blown about. Bert piloted nonchalantly. Out of that he came into the rainy season of the East Indies. No rain could stop him. He bobbed along on the air, over the sea and arrived at Port Darwin, Australia in 15 1-2 days of flying. Like Capt. Ross Smith, he was a native Australian and the reception he was given was as hearty.

Just to prove that he is pre-eminent in piloting a flivver plane he came to America last year hopped to Kingston, Jamaica, in a little ship, then flew on to South America and crossed the Atlantic to Africa.

Further Flights Likely
He is first and always an aviator. That's his life and he would not do anything else. A silent man he hasn't said much about his future plans, but when he was in New York recently it leaked out that he contemplates making an attempt to break the long distance flight record. With him was Capt. R. N. McIntosh, an aerial crony, and what they may do before the summer is over will probably be surprising.

In New York when a reporter heard that he was to fly the Atlantic, Hinkler was asked why he was going to do it.

"It'll be cheaper than taking a boat," answered Bert, and said no more.

pledging the party to fight the saloon and urging that the amendment be obeyed while in force.

SPLIT ON WORDING

Washington, June 7.—(AP)—Political clashes in the high command of both parties today had thrust conventions battles upon both Republicans and Democrats. Republican leaders at the Capitol agreed in principle on a declaration for resubmitting prohibition, split wide part yesterday on wording of the plank. The issue was pointed for Chicago and settlement in the party assembly next week. James R. Garfield of Ohio, who will direct drafting of the platform, planned a final talk today with President Hoover before departing for the convention city.

In the Democratic party a serious factional fight for control of the convention was made certain. J. M. Jett, National Executive Committee chairman, asserted his name would be put before the convention for the post of permanent chairman, regardless of announcement by Governor Roosevelt's aides that they would seek to place Senator Walsh of Montana in the Chairmanship.

Shouse to Fight

Shouse said the delegates would have a chance to vote me up or down, forming their own opinion with the public—as to the good faith of Governor Roosevelt in assenting to the April 4 agreement (that Shouse would hold the post) and as to the propriety of the change of plans ascribed to him by James A. Farley.

Shouse returned the Roosevelt challenge in a lengthy formal statement. He said he had a statement dictated by the Governor consenting without qualification to the arrangements committee agreement to commend his selection. He said the proposition was put to him at that committee's meeting without his previous knowledge of the plan, but that he withheld assent until Roosevelt's agreement had been obtained.

Shouse has been considered an opponent by the Roosevelt forces. The attempt at displacing him from the convention post led to speculation that a friendly chairman was sought to make possible abolishing the two-thirds rule if the leading candidate failed to gather that wide margin now required for nomination.

Borah's Opinion

The Republican prohibition outbreak took double form. Senator Borah launched a broadside against the party's proposed plank asserting "these generalities on this subject are more or less an insult to the intelligence of the people whether they are wet or dry" and demanding that an alternative program to existing prohibition be submitted with any declaration for resubmission.

Simultaneously in a conference with Garfield held at the Capital, the split developed on whether the plank propose that the issue be resubmitted to state legislatures, as desired by drys, or put in the hands of conventions chosen solely for that purpose, the system favored by anti-prohibitionists. The point had to be left open.

On top of this came word that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., long an advocate of national prohibition, declared himself for a repeal plank in the national platforms and for taking the issue out of politics through adoption of the same principle by both parties.

Spanning the Wabash river at Vincennes, Ind., the strikingly beautiful concrete bridge pictured above will be dedicated soon by the states of Indiana and Illinois which shared the cost of construction. President Hoover has been invited to attend the ceremony, scheduled to be held in July when the bridge will be opened for traffic. The structure includes seven spans of reinforced concrete and reaches 1035 feet from abutment to abutment. The roadway is 50 feet above low water level. Approaches now are being built. Erected at a cost of approximately $250,000, the bridge will be an integral feature of the $2,000,000 George Rogers Clark National Memorial which may be under construction through the arch in the center of the photo. The memorial itself will not be ready for dedication before 1934.

To put in a full day's work, you need a full man's strength. A man, half-sick from constipation, has less chance to succeed in today's keen competition.

This insidious condition often causes headaches, loss of energy, sleeplessness. It takes the edge from your working hours.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also has iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it becomes a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than using pills and drugs—so often harmful.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Weekly Review of Agriculture by Farmers' Paper

Chicago, Ill., —(AP)—No credit expansion has yet been erected on the foundation built by the purchase of government securities by the federal reserve banks, the review said. "Seasonal decline in business activity has reduced demand for farm products even below subnormal spring levels," the review continued. "General commodity prices are still slipping downward, although the slope of the curve is less steep than several months ago."

"Light runs of cattle are probable in the next 30 days, until the heavy supplies of rangers begin to show up. Arrivals of good and choice steers are likely to be unusually light. While demand conditions are adverse, prices for such cattle probably will work up to a seasonal peak in August or early September. While the season for advancing prices of choice steers is at hand common and medium grades usually begin to work downward around the middle of June. All such cattle intended for early marketing should be sent in shortly. The movement of stockers and feeders to the country continues far below normal, indicating light finishing operations, but there is some tendency to hold back light cattle for the fall market."

"Hogs probably are making their sensational low point. Receipts usually begin to decrease after early June and sentiment shows a little improvement. Opinions have differed considerably as to the extent of the summer supply, but some recent surveys have indicated only a small increase over last year. Packers have expected large supplies and have bought for storage with great caution, but are now likely to take hold more willingly. Receipts during the spring have been running larger than a year ago, because of larger pig crop raised last fall and because of a tendency to market early. During the late summer, supplies probably will be smaller than last year. They are likely to average lighter in weight and the fall runs probably will start somewhat later than last year. Choice light hogs probably will improve considerably in price in the next two months."

"Lamb prices are largely adjusted to a new crop basis, although still lower prices can be expected during the summer, as receipts undergo seasonal expansion. Wool prices remain somewhat unsettled, but ideas of values are nearing crystallization. Sale of a large block of Texas wools has been made at 8 to 11 cents."

"Reports of deterioration of winter wheat have been largely offset by favorable accounts of spring wheat, so that prices have made little progress. World supplies promise to be somewhat lighter this year. The heavy decline in winter wheat in the United States is the principal change. In addition, decreases are now indicated for Europe, possibly including Russia, for North Africa and for Asia. These reductions show more than offset the probable increase in spring wheat in North America and in the new seedling in the southern hemisphere. The carryover in the United States of July 1 will be larger than last year, but the world carryover will be somewhat smaller."

"Demand for corn has improved, but salable supplies on farms are large and the new crop is doing fairly well. The after-planting run of corn probably will hold prices down in the next two or three weeks, unless some excitement develops in wheat."

"The rate at which butter is disappearing into consumption is better than during the spring, but production is still increasing seasonally, and storage demand is weak. Economic uncertainty and lack of finances will tend to reduce the amount stored except at low prices."

"Egg production is holding up better than last year at this season. Prices probably will be only steady to weak for another month. Receipts of poultry have been decreasing for the last two or three weeks. Low prices for fowls have tended to check sales. Commercial hatching operations are running behind last year. Numbers of young chicks in farm flocks on May 1 were about the same as a year ago."

Illinois Defense

Fools Corn Borer

Urbana, Ill., June 7.—Although the corn borer probably will advance closer to Illinois during the coming season, it looms as less of a threat to the state's principal crop when it is viewed in the light of "preparedness" experiments being conducted by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois and the Illinois State Natural History Survey.

For one thing, the experiments have brought to light some strains of Illinois corn which yield fairly high even when infested with as many as ten corn borers to each stalk. Forty-five different strains of Illinois dent corn and 17 selections of sweet corn have been grown for one or more years in plots near Toledo, O., to test their performance under corn borer conditions.

Among the strains grown for four seasons, two known as F-1 365 (Holbert) and Multiple Cross 517 (Holbert) continued to show low infestations and high yields, indicating resistance to the insect.

Three strains, Krug, Golden King and Gunn Western Showman, grown for three seasons, show both high infestation and high yield, indicating tolerance and ability to yield despite the borer.

That some of these strains are going to yield well in spite of infestations averaging 10 borers to the stalk was indicated when they were artificially infested. The F-1 365 (Holbert) strain yielded 79.4 bushels an acre; Krug, 78.7 bushels; Multiple Cross, 68.1 bushels; and Golden King, 67.3 bushels. These yields were on the basis of 15.5 percent moisture.

While the insect is continuing to advance toward Illinois, improved cultural and mechanical methods of controlling it also are being worked out for the use of farmers. Although the pest had not been found in Illinois up to the start of the 1932 season, it was found in 1931 both in Kentucky to the south and Wisconsin to the north. The insect last year increased greatly in abundance in the older-infested regions of Ohio.

Evanston Against Pork Barrell P. O.

Evanston, Ill., June 7.—(AP)—Evanston, as represented by its council and mayor, Charles H. Bartlett, doesn't wish to have a new post office to cost $600,000.

The council, under the urging of Mayor Bartlett, last night unanimously passed a resolution opposing the proposal before Congress for a $5,000,000,000 bond issue for building postoffices, including one for Evanston.

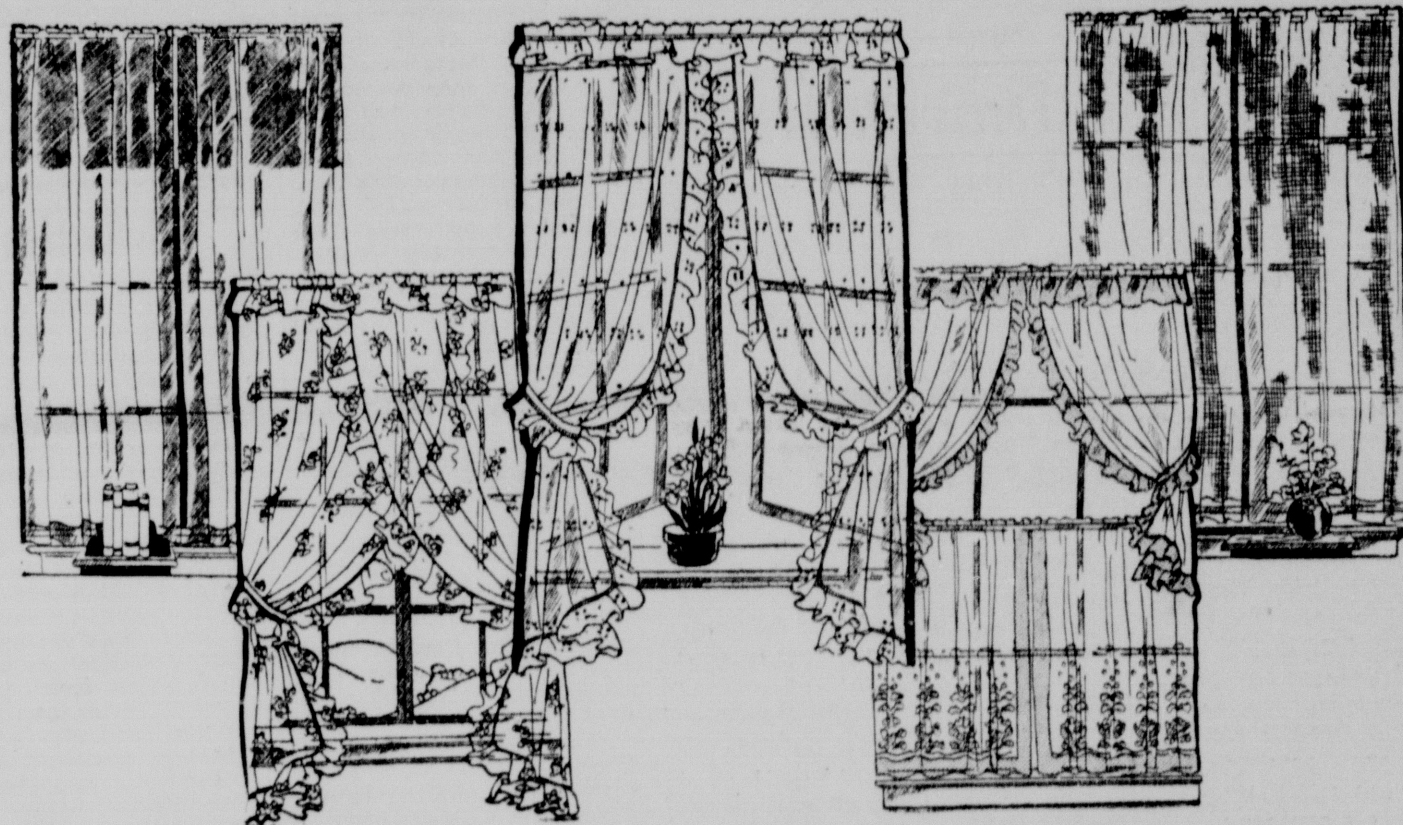

The mayor said the city's rented postoffice building was good enough.

FARM BUYING POWER IS KEY TO PROSPERITY

Delegates To Fertilizer Convention Are Told So Today

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., June 7.—The one thing most needed to hasten the return of prosperity is an increase in the purchasing power of the farmer, declared speakers here today at the opening session of the eighth annual convention of the National Fertilizer Association.

The organization includes the leading manufacturers of fertilizers, and many executives from all parts of the country are gathered here for the three-day meeting. These men represent an industry that sold 8,000,000 tons of its product in 1930 and which will sell only 4,000,000 tons this year—a decrease of 50 per cent.

Bayless W. Haynes of Jacksonville, Florida, president of the association, president of Wilson & Toomer, Fertilizer Company, and the owner and operator of large citrus groves as well, in his annual address, "The Industry's Opportunity and Duty," praised the work of the association. "Through our association," said Mr. Haynes, "we have been able to solve satisfactorily some of the most serious problems that have confronted our industry. Among these problems may be mentioned collections where banking facilities no longer exist, extending credit, adjusting the industry to truck transportation, and others. We have assisted in obtaining fairly uniform control regulations in 13 additional states; we have furnished our members with statistical information of great value to them and unobtainable elsewhere; we have done our best to convince Congress and the public that the government should not manufacture fertilizer at Muscle Shoals in competition with private industry, and we have increased our membership by 20 per cent."

"I do not think that the present situation is by any means hopeless," said Mr. Haynes in discussing the depressed condition in the industry. "We have simply got to do some clear thinking and fit ourselves to the situation as we find it. We cannot force the impossible. It is the time of all times for the application of good sound, hard sense. We must prepare to make and sell that quantity of fertilizer that the farmer can buy, and we must not extend credit where there is no reasonable expectation that the buyer can discharge his obligation. We are not loaded up with burdensome inventories, and if we have a straight course we may expect to stay in business and await the return of better times."

Charles J. Brand, executive secretary and treasurer of the association, addressed the convention on "The Ups and Downs of Agriculture." "There is nothing new about agricultural depressions," said Mr. Brand. "They are as old as civilization itself. The Egyptians and the Romans had them, and there were several severe ones in our own Colonial period, not to mention those of more recent date. There is reason to believe that the present depression, which for farmers began in 1920, may be followed by some years of low prices. Prosperity, however, is not so much a question of high prices, but a question of price relations. Farm products are now selling at 61 per cent of prewar prices, while the average of all commodities bought by farmers is 115 per cent of the prewar figure. The farmer's dollar is now worth only 53 cents. He cannot possibly be even reasonably prosperous until the price equilibrium is restored. Not until then will the farmer be able to enjoy a standard of living that is in keeping with service he renders to society."

"The disparity in the prices of what the farmer sells and what he buys is well illustrated by the fact that in 1913 it took 120 bushels of wheat to buy a grain binder, while in 1931 it took 340 bushels. In 1913 it took 179 pounds of cotton to buy a cultivator, but in 1931 it took 692 pounds. The wholesale price of fertilizer in 1931 was less than it was in 1913, but, even so, it took twice as many pounds of cotton to buy a ton of fertilizer in 1931 as were required in 1913."

age of cotton, corn, and wheat account for the bulk of this acre shift.

"Undoubtedly the depression of agriculture since 1920 has been one of the chief causes for the general breakdown of the business structure, and in my opinion the greatest need of the moment is the adjustment of prices to purchasing power," said Mr. Brand. "The superstructure of a sound prosperity cannot be laid upon an uneven and variable foundation. With farm prices at 41 percent higher than before the war, and prices paid by farmers 15 percent higher than before the war, we cannot hope for stability. Prices generally must be adjusted before we can have that equilibrium which must precede general recovery."

Summarizing, Mr. Brand stated that the purchasing power of farm products must be raised, farm taxes must be lowered through reduction in the cost of government, there must be further adjustments in wage scales in some industries, there must be a scaling down of freight rates, lower prices for many lines of finished goods, and lower rents in line with reduced industrial payrolls. These adjustments must come before farm purchasing power can be restored.

The annual Association dinner will be held this evening, at which Stringfellow Barr, editor of The Virginia Quarterly Review, will give his interesting address on "George Washington: Gentleman Farmer."

The final session of the convention tomorrow morning will be devoted to association business; and the Board of Directors, including newly elected members, will meet tomorrow afternoon at which time officers for the coming year will be elected.

Farming Factors

GET WELL MATURED PULLETS EARLY

By J. H. BODWELL

There is much controversy about the time birds should lay. Some want them early, some want them late. The truth of the matter is a pullet is ready to lay when she is fully matured and properly fleshed whether it is five months or six months. It is not desirable to have a pullet lay early if she has been forced to reach sexual maturity before she reaches physical maturity and not well fleshed. There are several factors that influence the securing of well matured pullets that are nicely fleshed, at an early age.

The first and most essential thing, after they have been properly brooded, is to separate the cockerels from the pullets before the cockerels become larger than the pullets. Keep them from becoming over-crowded during the growing period. Give them plenty of range and plenty of hopper space. See that they have adequate roosting facilities and see that their roosts are not in the pitch of a roof where it is very hot during the evening. They should have a cool place to roost nights and never overcrowded.

In other words, proper feed, plenty of room, plenty of green feed on the range, proper housing facilities to keep the birds cool in the day time and at night, and from being over-crowded will give us the results we want.

GRASS AND THE GROWING PULP. G. G. Riley
Blue grass is up in fine shape for baby chick and growing chick pasture, likewise alfalfa and clover. The grass, alfalfa and clover, make a real addition to the chick ration, and chicks should be on the ground and getting the benefit of this range as much as possible.

Young tender blue grass is high in protein and the protein is of high value. The same is true of alfalfa and clover. The value of grass is high for some six to eight weeks from the time it gets a good start in April or early May. After it begins to get tall, woody and dry, later in the season, the protein content will be reduced to about one-half its present amount and its value too, much less than half, because of the fact that it becomes woody tough and unpalatable.

"The farmer's tax burden is enormous. In 1931 his total tax bill was greater than the combined value of the wheat and cotton crops. We owe it to ourselves, to the farmer, and to the country to give vigorous assistance to every movement that has for its end an appropriate and equitable reduction of the farmer's tax burden," said Mr. Brand.

She's a Wizard—On Crops

E. H. Miller, who has been doing an amazing job at forecasting cotton and grain crops for a Chicago brokerage house, turns out to be a woman—Miss Eileen Miller, shown here. She is said to be the only woman cotton and grain crop forecaster. She directs 5000 expert correspondents in the grain and cotton belts and from reports coming from these correspondents, bases her crop predictions. She expresses fear for the southwestern winter wheat crop, due to lack of rain and heat.

Because of this early season value, chicks on ordinary or inferior rations often get a severe setback when the value of the grass declines and become slow growing, often stunted and do not come into production in the fall as rapidly as they should. In spite of the fact that chicks seem to be doing well on inferior rations (particularly grains alone) the time is coming when they stop doing well, and the poultry feeder has difficulty understanding why.

The English poultryman feeds less protein supplements to spring than the American poultryman, and gets good results. The answer is found in the English grass, which, due to the mild damp climate is as palatable and as full of feeding value the year round as we in America find it in the spring.

Farm Radio

Monthly reports on the price situation and on the trend of milk production, from the Department of Agriculture will be sent to the Farm and Home Hour audience by the authors of the reports in the program of Wednesday, June 15.

On Tuesday, June 14, O. E. Reed, chief of the Bureau of Dairy Industry, will conclude his series of talks on "Science and the Dairy Industry."

On Friday, June 17, the first of a series of three programs planned for the meeting of the National 4-H Club Camp in Washington, D. C., will be broadcast during the Farm and Home Hour period.

The Department of Agriculture program for the week follows:
Tuesday, June 14—"The Household Calendar," Miss Ruth Van Deeman, Bureau of Home Economics; "The Garden Calendar," W. R. Beattie, Bureau of Plant Industry; "Science and the Dairy Industry," O. E. Reed, chief, Bureau of Dairy Industry.

Wednesday, June 15—"The trend of Milk Production," J. B. Shepard, Bureau of Agricultural Economics; "The Price Situation," A. G. Peterson, Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Thursday, June 16—Uncle Sam's Forest Rangers.

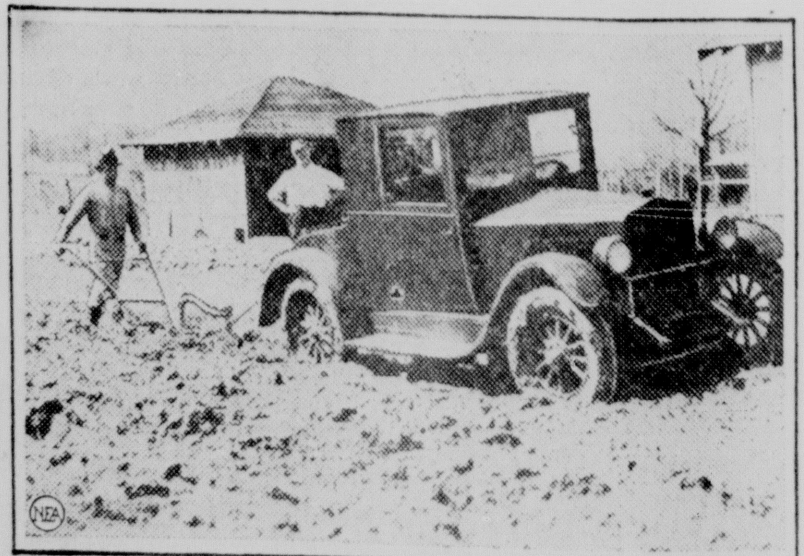

Friday, June 17—Special 4-H club program.

The National Farm and Home Hour is broadcast from 11:30 A. M. to 12:30 P. M., Central Standard Time by WOC and KYW.

W. F. PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

Last week I said that the poultry and egg business could not be separated from general business conditions. And the point I want to emphasize now is the fact that the present condition is a world condition.

I think you might be interested in this letter I just received from a friend of mine who is in the poultry business in London. It reads as follows:

Dear Mr. Priebe:
Many thanks for your letter of May 11th. As you know, I always value any communication from you because it is interesting to hear of the state of the trade and the conditions prevailing on your side.

We have had a setback in business this year. There has been the demand for poultry since Christmas and we have had very heavy supplies from the Continent, prices having been low. But the unfortunate part is that chickens that were packed in Ireland and England and the special Dutch chickens—which were imported for the trade—have not yet cleared and there is such a huge increase in the production of English chickens that the trade is finding difficulty in marketing these satisfactorily. We are all anxious to clear our cold stocks and find it very difficult to secure a satisfactory outlet.

When shall we see the turn of the tide? That is what everybody is asking. So far we cannot visualize the time when the tide will turn, for on this side, the same as yours, there is not the spending power of the public, and really production has exceeded the demand to quite an extent.

I shall be interested to hear from you at any time on the subject of conditions.

Yours very truly,
A. S. JUNIPER

That gives you some idea of what the situation is in England. Next week I want to write you more about conditions in this country as I saw them last week when I visited different Eastern cities on a business trip.

I am sure you will be interested in some of the things I saw and heard because, after all, the price you get for your farm products depends on what these people in the cities can pay for them.

Sincerely yours,
W. F. Priebe

Farm Activities At State College

Urbana, Ill., June 9.—(AP)—State wide farm activities will be centered on the University of Illinois campus from June 8 to 25 under plans announced today by the college of agriculture.

More than 6,000 visitors are expected to take part in various conferences and vocational agricultural contests scheduled by the college during the period.

Farm boys and girls, all members of 4-H clubs in the state, will gather here June 8, 9 and 10 for their annual University Junior club tour. They will compete in a variety of contests.

Farm advisers representing 98 counties will attend the annual summer conference of advisers scheduled for June 13, 14 and 15.

Team and individual state championships will be at stake when 1,600 students from vocational agricultural high schools take part in contests in judging of livestock, dairy cattle, poultry, grain and corn June 17 and 18.

TAX MEETING TO BE HELD IN OREGON JUNE 24

Farmers Are Invited To Attend: Sponsored By Association

Springfield, Ill., June 7.—(AP)—More meetings will be held this month by the Illinois Agricultural Association in furthering its campaign to reduce local government expenses in Illinois. John C. Watson, director of taxation for the association announced today.

They are scheduled as follows: Olney, June 8; Danville, June 10; Jacksonville, June 20; Edwardsville, June 21; Springfield, June 22; Peoria, June 23; Oregon, June 24; Sycamore, June 27; Bloomington, June 28; Geneva, June 29.

"Investigations are being made into expenditures of local governments where 80 to 90 per cent of the farmers' tax money is spent," Watson said.

"The object of the campaign is to cut out unnecessary public offices and services, promote reasonable reductions in costs of needed services, consolidate taxing districts where possible, and reduce or temporarily abolish certain levies on property, with the view of lowering the farmers' tax burden."

"Farm Bureau tax committees, which already have played a leading part in bringing about substantial cuts in assessed valuations in nearly all counties, will attend the district conferences and lay plans for a uniform study of tax problems in their respective counties."

"The general plan as outlined in the conferences already held is for county committees to check up on the amount of bonded or other indebtedness in each taxing district, get the levy on property in each district, scrutinize annual expenditures, and drive for reasonable salary reductions."

"They will also dig into the question of consolidating small taxing districts, combining school districts, making county poor farms self-supporting, and seeing that county funds in general are wisely administered."

"The Illinois Agricultural Association will concentrate its efforts on a study of state expenditures and laws determining county and local expenditures."

"During the past 10 years the tax bill on Illinois farm property has not been reduced in line with the heavy loss in farm values. Farm income during this period has dropped nearly 70 per cent in most cases."

"Efforts of the Farm Bureaus and the I. A. A. have been largely responsible for a slash of $6,000,000 in the tax bill as compared to what it would have been if the assessed valuations had remained the same as they were in 1923. This has helped some, but the burden is still too heavy with prices at their present low level."

Hessian Fly Bad Throughout State

Urbana, Ill., June 7.—(AP)—Hessian fly, the most destructive insect pest of wheat is worse in Illinois this season than it has been for ten years, W. P. Flint, chief entomologist of the Illinois State History Survey said today.

Yields will be reduced 25 to 50 per cent in many fields in the west central part of the state, he reported. Damage will not be so severe as this in the extreme southern, eastern and northern parts of the state.

Unusually heavy damage by the insect this spring is the result largely of a late and large spring brood and favorable conditions for the pest, Flint explained.

"At present the fly is the fittest, or nearly full grown maggot, stage at the base of the wheat plants and tillers. Feeding on the present growing crop of wheat is practically over, and no further damage will result. However, the damage already done will become more and more apparent as the wheat heads begin to fill and the stalks, weakened by the fly, break over and fall."

"Nothing can be done to reduce the damage in the growing wheat at this time. However, damage to next year's crop can be prevented agricultural departments of high schools in the state will hold their annual conference June 20, 21, and 22.

The college announced open house from June 20 to 25. County farm advisers, teachers and 4-H club leaders are expected to inspect laboratories and experimental plots during this period.

Farmers' Comparison Chart

Farm prices of lambs began to decline sharply in 1929, when reduced purchasing power started a general decline. This is shown in the chart above, prepared by the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. There is a relatively large number of lambs for market this year and demand in most markets is still weak, the bureau reports. Farmers can compare their local lamb price with the national average by filling in the empty blocks at the end of the chart.

Bugs Eat His Dust

One of the first advocates of crop dusting by plane is Lieutenant Henry Elliott, shown in inset. Starting in Macon, Ga., in 1923, he estimates that he has dusted more than 500,000 acres since then. Under ordinary conditions 300 acres can be dusted in an hour he says. It's a rather dangerous occupation, as the plane must fly within 18 inches of the top of the crop to be dusted. Lieutenant Elliott is showing how it's done at United Airport, Burbank, Calif., in the above plane.

by following recommended precautions. First, infested stubble that is not sown to clover or grass should be plowed under, at least six inches deep, as soon as possible after the wheat is cut and removed from the field. Second, all growth of volunteer wheat should be kept down wherever possible. Third, sowing should be done late enough to avoid heavy fly infestation but early enough to withstand the winter. Average dates of seeding to get the highest yield in different localities are available from farm advisors, the Illinois State Natural History Survey and the agricultural college. Fourth, strong-stemmed varieties of wheat that do not break over easily should be grown."

Public Health and the applications must be filed with that department. All children between the ages of six months and five years are eligible to enter the conference. Children up to six years of age who were examined at the conference last year are also eligible for registration and acceptance this year.

Sets of twins and triplets from 6 months to 10 years of age and families of six children all six of whom are between the ages of 6 months and 16 years are eligible for entering the conference and competing for awards.

Children up to 10 years of age may be entered for examination at the conference but those not of the age groups specified above are not eligible to compete for awards. About $500 in cash awards are offered to highest scoring children in the various age groups and classes. These awards vary from $2 to $20 each. In addition to this there is offered to the mother of the highest scoring child in the conference, age 1 to 5, the Governor's silver loving cup.

The Quality of Eggs

No one of us would pay a better price for a cheaper product — whether it were food, clothes, furniture, or farm machinery.

So we can hardly expect to get a better price for eggs if the quality is poorer.

Just when we will see better egg prices, we cannot say, but there is one thing certain: They will improve much sooner if you will keep up the quality of the eggs.

There is only one way that can be done: Give the chickens the "raw materials" they need to manufacture good eggs. Feed determines not only the number of eggs a hen will lay, but also their size and interior quality.

Besides feed the hens need water to make eggs. An egg is two-thirds water.

Water costs nothing. Are your hens getting plenty of it—and is it CLEAN and COOL? Let's do everything we can to keep up the quality of the eggs.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS PHILLIES PLAN RECEPTION FOR WESTERN TEAMS

The Short Right Field In Baker Bowl Great For Wreckers

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Should Burt Shotton's Phillies get even possible pitching the next two weeks, they are likely to make a world of trouble for their guests from the western end of the National League.

Starting today against the Pittsburgh Pirates, the slugging Phils entertain Cincinnati, St. Louis and Chicago in that order, and they promise to be anything but a soft touch in their own Baker Bowl with its inviting right field wall.

The club still is without a competent pitching staff, but it has probably the most effective "wrecking crew" in the National League, with Chuck Klein, Pinky Whitney and Don Hurst the big guns.

In their last 15 games of which they have won eight the Phils have batted an average of 11 hits and scored better than seven runs to the contest.

Wrecking Crew at Work
Against Brooklyn yesterday—the only game played in either major league—the Klein-Hurst-Whitney combination worked overtime, contributing 10 of the team's 21 hits off three Dodgers hurlers and otherwise playing a large part in the 15 to 7 victory.

Whitney pushed across four runs with a double and two singles, Hurst hit four singles in as many official trips and scored four times, and Klein hit his fourteenth home run of the year and a brace of singles. The assault generated by the trio netted 14 runs in the first five innings.

Hack Wilson led a futile Brooklyn rally in the late innings with his ninth and tenth home runs, eventually driving Phil Collins from the box. Lefty O'Doul and Glenn Wright also hit for the circuit.

Most of the fourteen other clubs spent the day either in travel or in harmless exhibitions.

Hooks and Slides

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

A number of requests for "the inside story" of the mobbing of Umpire George Moriarty have been made of this department. Several have written to ask how a group of ball players, in whom there is supposed to exist a spirit of fair play, could so forget themselves as to pick on one man.

But there is no inside story, unless it be that the White Sox for some time have looked upon George as their special enemy. It is common knowledge that George several times has cast aspersions at the managerial ability of Lew Fonseca, who was one of those fined for his part in the attack.

Lu Blue, White Sox first baseman, who had no part in the affair, has regarded Mr. Moriarty with an unkindly eye ever since he played under George's management in Detroit, and was traded down the river to the Browns by the man who now is umpiring.

WHY, MILTON!

But one of the funniest statements growing out of the fracas under the Cleveland grandstand was that of Milt Gaston, the pitcher who was the first to accept Moriarty's challenge. Gaston now is modestly willing to admit that he was really winning the bout when it was stopped.

If that is true Phil Scott ought to come back to this country and clean up with a demonstration of how a man can win a fight after he has been knocked out.

Our own idea of the bout between Moriarty and Gaston is that if it had not been stopped just when it was, Big Ed Morris would not be the only pitcher slain in combat this year.

FROM THE OLD DAYS

H. G. Salsinger, Detroit newspaper man, kicks in with two amusing incidents of Moriarty's old hurly-burly days as third baseman and captain of the Tigers, when the Tigers had such men on the roster as Cobb, Rossman, Bush, Crawford, Schaefer, O'Leary, Mullin, Schmidt, Donovan, Siever, Kilian, Summers, McIntyre and Jones.

George was a fighter then, as now, and his aggressiveness made him the idol of the Detroit fans.

One day Hobe Ferris of the Browns came sliding into third, spikes high, and cut Moriarty. George said nothing. Several months passed, and Moriarty held his peace.

Another day Ferris was on second again, and had to sprint for third on a grounder. Moriarty set for the throw. As Ferris slid into the bag Moriarty's throwing arm completed a full arc, and Moriarty's fist, gripping the ball, crashed against Ferris' jaw. Ferris was unconscious for 15 minutes after they carried him from the field.

THE CARRIGAN BOUT
Moriarty was a great fellow for stealing home. His record of stealing home twice in one inning still stands. In a certain game with Boston the score was 1 to 0 in favor of the Red Sox in the last half of the ninth. Moriarty was on third and two were out. Bill Carrigan was catching for Boston.

As the pitcher started his wind-up, Moriarty dashed for home. The pitcher, who had been expecting Moriarty's move, cut short his windup and pegged to Carrigan, who tagged George as he slid into the plate.

Carrigan, however, had been nursing a chew of scrap tobacco, and at that time had a mouthful of the brown juice. After tagging Moriarty for the putout that ended the ball game, he let loose a load of juice in Moriarty's face.

THEN CAME THE RIOT
George jumped up, pulled Carrigan's mask off and swung on his jaw. Bill went down and several players pulled Moriarty off. The crowd swept onto the field.

Carrigan got up and ran for the visitor's dugout. With the mob in pursuit he climbed to the top of the dugout, where he was joined by Uncle Frank Navin, owner of the Tigers. Navin pleaded for Carrigan's life, and held the attention of the crowd until policemen arrived and escorted Carrigan to the clubhouse.

A mob waited for hours for Carrigan to emerge from the clubhouse. Finally he escaped in a groundkeeper's disguise, with raincoat, hip boots and an old slouch hat, walking through the mob unrecognized.

Bobby Cruikshank, Long Jim Barnes, Paul Runyan, Clarence Clark, Willie MacFarlane, Jock Hutchison, Joe Kirkwood, Fred Morrison and Abe Espinosa all made the grade.

The lowest 36-hole score of the sectional play was turned in by Francis Schneider at Dallas. He posted a pair of 68's for 136.

IN BRITISH OPEN

Sadwich, England, June 7.—(AP)—America's "big three" in the British open golf championship—Sammy Armour, defending champion, MacDonald Smith and Gene Sarazen—safely qualified among the leaders today for the 72 holes of medal play proper, but home-bred British golfers furnished all the fireworks.

Mac Smith and Armour had 36 hole totals of 146, Mac Smith with 73-73 and Armour with 75-71, and Sarazen, one of the leaders yesterday with a 73 took 76 for a 36 hole total of 149.

Alfred Robert Bradbeer, young best posted, with a fine total of 141, lead, with only a few scores yet to Somerset professional, held the adding a 71 to his 70 of yesterday.

The main interest, however, was furnished by Eric McRorie, young Scotch amateur and Walker Cup player, and Don Curtis, English professional, who scored 69's over Prince's par 74 stretch to break the course record of Jock Hutchison and Arthur Havers by two strokes.

Amateurs Qualify
Two American amateurs among the early finishers also apparently had qualified. Robert Sweeney, American student at Oxford scored a 76 today and had 75-76-151; and Douglass Grant, American living in London and a member at the Royal St. George's scored a fine 72 over his home course for a 36-hole total of 152. Ross Thompson of Uniontown, Pa., was on the border line with 80-78-158.

Among the better-known British professionals well up in the field were Arthur Havers, last Briton to win the title, in 1923, with 148; Archie Compston, 149; A. H. Padham, 148; Tom Green 148; George Duncan, 147 and R. A. Whitcombe 146.

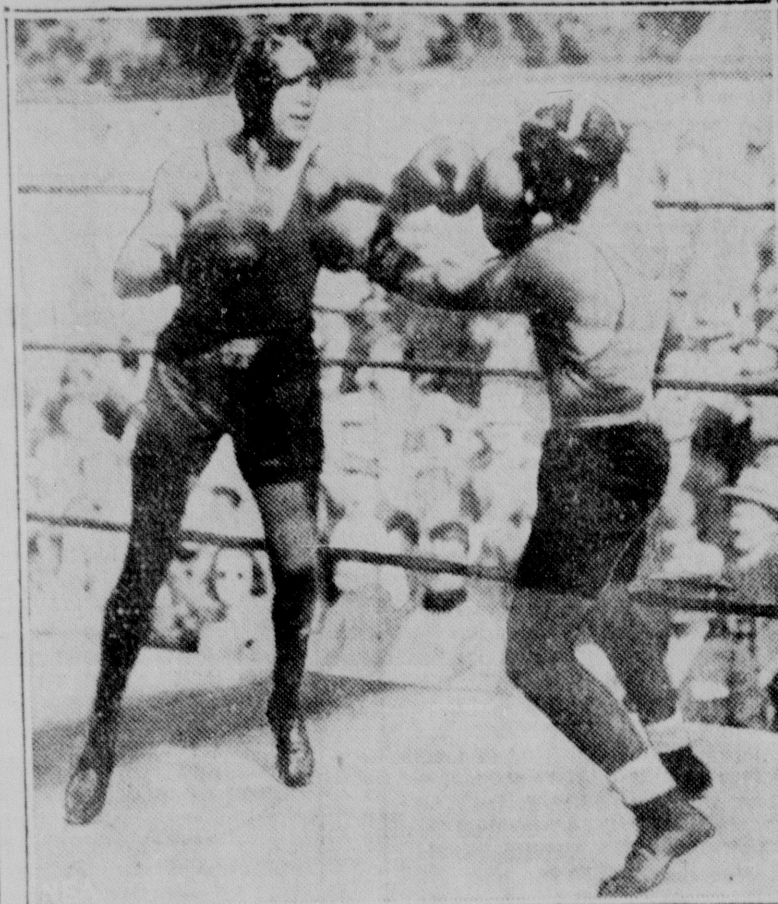

The 100 low scorers and ties will start all over again tomorrow at Prince's course, with an 18 hole round tomorrow, another 18 hole round Thursday and the final 36-holes for the 60 low scorers, Friday.

Cards Not Returned
Frank Sweeney, American born Londoner, who took an 85 yesterday, did not turn in his card today, and Paul Azbill, another American expatriate, needed 84 strokes for a 36-hole total of 169, putting him out of the competition.

Abe Mitchell, British favorite, added a 73 to the same score for his first 18 and tied Mac Smith and Armour at 146.

James Braid, British veteran who won the open in 1901, found his 62 years too much of a handi-

"I've been looking at motors from the inside for many years and I have yet to find a motor properly cared for that wears out," said J. A. Bonell of 1206 - 3rd Street, Brookings, S. D.

An Interview by ROBERT J. CASEY

Chicago Daily News Reporter

J. A. BONELL of Brookings, S. D., is an authority on automotive engines. He stood by, watching with an appraising eye, while a service station attendant serviced his Studebaker car.

"Iso-Vis," he ordered. "I think I can take about two quarts more."

"I've been looking at motors from the inside out for many a year," he told the inquiring reporter a few minutes later as he drove his car through heavy going to demonstrate the smooth, powerful operation of the engine. "And I've come to the conclusion that lubrication is the last thing that will hurt them."

"I have driven this car 43,000 miles with virtually no repair bill and, in spite of all I've heard about too much lubrication, no carbon."

"The car gets plenty of hard usage. I drive to Minneapolis and back once every six weeks. I haven't yet found a motor properly cared for that wears out."

Mr. Bonell's 43,000 trouble-free miles prove again what Iso-Vis has demonstrated in many tests—Positive Lubrication Protection. Iso-Vis (a Standard Oil product) will not thin out from dilution. See the Ball and Bottle Test at Standard Oil service stations and dealers.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

APINTAIL DUCK,

Bird banding has proved many startling facts, and many that were entirely unsuspected. By placing small metal bands on the legs of captured birds, with numbers corresponding to records of dates and locations, much valuable information has been learned regarding the migration habits of birds. The north and south migrations have been a known fact for years, but the east and west cross-country flights, as in the case of the pintail duck, was a surprising discovery.

BIG AMERICAN OWNED NITRATE CO. ENDANGERED

New Chilean Govt. Retracts Promises Of Integrity

Santiago, Chile, June 7.—(AP)—The fate of Cosach, the $75,000,000 American-controlled Chilean nitrate combine, vied for attention today from new provisional government with the religious question and reports of a counter-revolution in the southern provinces. The Finance Ministry early last night issued a statement in which it said the government would not take any steps to confiscate the Cosach properties until after a committee of experts had made a thorough study of the nitrate problem and the matter had been submitted to the new congress, which is expected to be convened in November.

Early today, however, the government issued a retraction of this statement, and this presumption left the Cosach matter as it was yesterday when the government indicated it would proceed to take it over immediately. Former President Juan Esteban Montero has taken refuge in the Argentine embassy here, it was learned today. The information set at rest various rumors regarding the former President's whereabouts, one of which said he was hugging southward to join the counter-revolution forces.

The newspaper La Libertad said yesterday that the Junta was studying a possible decree dissolving religious orders. It was learned today no action had been taken on the religious question. In spite of a denial by the government that a counter-revolution was in progress, advisers today indicated that some naval and military units in southern Chile were resisting the Junta.

Brief Summary of Last Night's News

GENERAL:

By The Associated Press. San Francisco — Frank J. Egan, ousted Public Defender, fails to surrender on murder charge; intense hunt on.

Albany, N. Y. — Gov. Roosevelt commutes sentence of Ruth Brown, Negro slayer, to life term. Charlotte, N. C. — Robert R. Reynolds, repeal advocate, leads Senator Cameron Morrison for Democratic nomination as count nears completion.

ILLINOIS:

Springfield — Leroy Bramlet of Glenarm, Ill., was killed and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cruse, Miss Opal Dodson and John Duncan of Jacksonville, Ill., were injured in an automobile collision near here.

Chicago — James O'Connor was arrested at the request of Madison county authorities for investigation in the Massey store robbery at Granite City, Ill.

Bloomington — A. S. Richards, of Rockford, was elected president, and Moline was selected for the next meeting of the Central Warehouse Men's Association convention.

Chicago — Mrs. Edna Scherer fought off police for half an hour before she could be subdued and her four undernourished children could be placed in proper care.

Tuscola — H. H. Withrow and C. M. Peters of New Orleans, La., were turned over to federal authorities for prosecution under the Volstead Act.

Sterling — An autopsy showed that Edward Burbach, found dead in his cabin, had died of heart disease.

ONLY SCORED 388

Denver — Mrs. D. E. McLaughlin's 13 spades and her poker face didn't do much good. All she scored in a bridge game here was 388 points. After she recovered from the shock of a perfect hand, she got in the bidding, but couldn't force it any higher than four spades.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CHERRY DIXON, 19 and pretty, falls in love with DAN PHILLIPS, newspaper reporter whom her wealthy, aristocratic parents have forbidden her to see. When messages have been kept from her she steals out of the house to meet him. Her father discovers this and threatens to send her to California. Cherry defies him and he orders her to leave.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

THE telephone shrilled. Cherry dropped the brown felt she had been about to pull over her head and reached for the receiver.

SAMUEL INSULL RESIGNS FROM ALL COMPANIES

Jas. Simpson Elected Is To Succeed Veteran
Power Magnate

Chicago, June 7—(AP)—Control of the huge Insull utility chain has passed from Samuel Insull to James Simpson one time immigrant boy who started his career as a $6 a week messenger in a Chicago department store.

The new head of the utility organization which distributes electricity and gas from coast to coast and in Canada, until yesterday was Chairman of the Board of Marshall Field & Company, where he began his messenger work in 1891.

Insull, also a former messenger boy who started his business career as secretary to Thomas Edison, announced his resignation yesterday, just one month after three of his holding companies went into receivership, giving ill health as the reason. Insull's responsibilities had weighed heavily upon him for months.

The announcement said he was retiring as Chairman of the Board of Commonwealth Edison Company, Public Service of Northern Illinois, and the Peoples Gas, Light & Coke Company, which serve millions of consumers in the Chicago area.

For Reorganization
It means, however, that Insull is no longer connected with the Insull utility empire—an empire which he won through engineering and organizing genius and lost through the intricacies of high finance.

Pending concurrence of the federal courts, Insull also resigned as co-receiver for Middle West Utilities, one of the holding companies. Together with Insull Investments, Inc., and Corporation Securities, the other concerns in receivership. Middle West Utilities had a portfolio valuation in boom market days of $3,500,000,000.

Simpson's succession of Insull as the nation's first ranking utility magnate was reported to have been brought about by a group of New York and Chicago banks which have advanced the Insull companies about $40,000,000. General reorganization and refinancing of the scores of Insull companies in 37 states and in Canada is expected to follow the change.

HARMON NEWS

By M. McDermott

Harmon—A large number of patrons and friends gathered at the McKee school Tuesday noon for a picnic dinner. During the afternoon a miscellaneous program was presented by the children. Mrs. Elmer Poppino also favored with two delightful readings. Following the program ice cream and cake were served and a social time was enjoyed by all.

There were two eighth grade graduates, Rita Rose Hermes, who received an average of 99 per cent, and Rita Anne Miller, who received 97 1-2. The school also has the distinction of having the northern state spelling championship which was won by Josephine Miller a few weeks ago in Rockford. She and her teacher, Miss Avis McGrath of Tampico, left Saturday morning for Washington, D. C. where Josephine will enter the national spelling tournament Tuesday, June 7. During their week's stay they will enjoy various sight-seeing trips in Washington and the surrounding cities. This was the award given to Josephine for her excellence in spelling and to Miss McGrath for coaching her young pupil so efficiently. Although Josephine is only 11 years old, which is very young to enter a contest when the competition is so keen, her many friends wish her much success.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Janowitz, daughter Corinne and son Eugene of Peoria spent the week-end here with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Mary Huston and daughters, Mrs. Delos Prescott and Mrs. Clark of Rockford and Mrs. Lem Searl of Amboy motored here last week and visited Mrs. Huston's brother, Nate Perkins.

Don't forget the pavilion dances held here every Tuesday evening. Good music and a good time is assured.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

Washington — They're asking again on Capitol Hill how Reed Smoot of Utah keeps going at the killing pace he does in the Senate.

Now, past 70, the angular, soft-voiced Utah Senator amazes observers with the vitality and grim doggedness he has displayed during long hours the Senate has been considering the revenue bill designed to balance the budget.

In charge of the bill, by virtue of being chairman of the Senate's Finance Committee, Smoot has driven himself and others day and night relentlessly. Over strong objections, he has called his committee together as early as 9:00 in the morning—an unheard of hour for senators—and put them to work so that the Senate might continue its labors on the bill when it convenes a few hours later.

And even before that hour he has cleared his desk of most of the routine matter that is the lot of every senator.

PHYSICAL TEST

On the floor he is almost constantly on his feet explaining to it is senator a portion of the bill arguing with that Senator over a controversial section, or urging another to support his position.

Not since the days he almost single-handedly maneuvered the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill through the Senate has he had such a severe physical test. But it doesn't seem to affect him at all.

Once someone sought an explanation for his powers of endurance. His reply was: "I have a right to demand such endurance. I have lived in accordance with the principles of right living as taught by my religion. What endurance, be it physical or mental, that I have is due to a strict adherence to those principles."

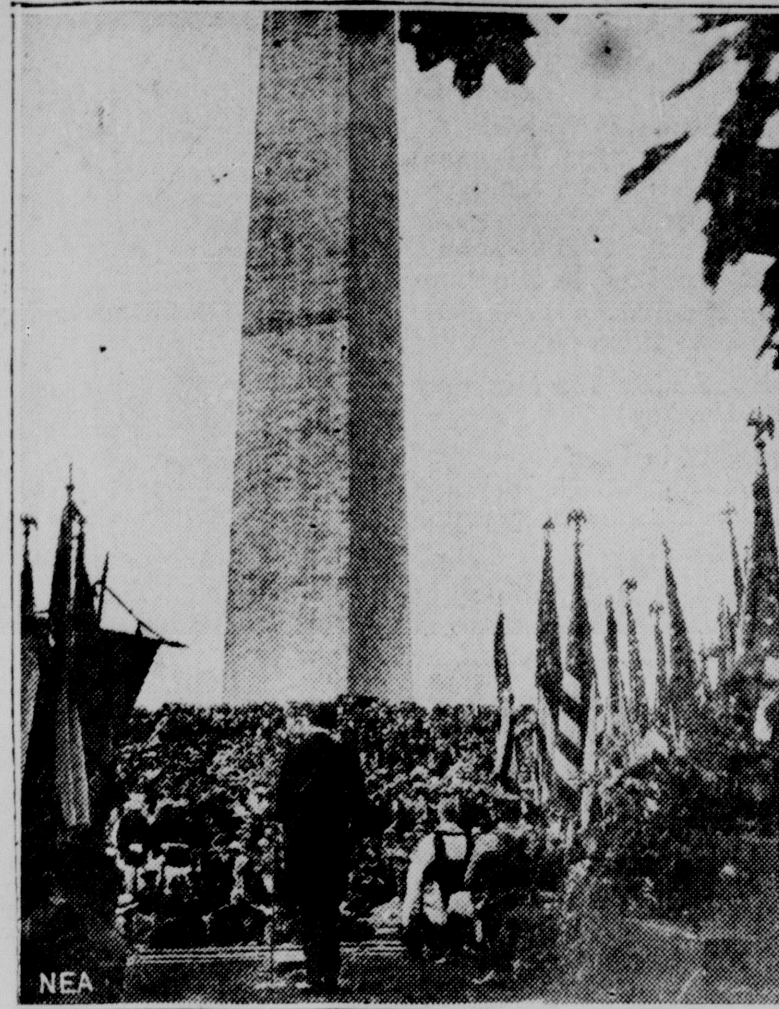

Senators know that there is no letting up when Reed Smoot is in charge of a bill. Some complain at his driving force, but they can do little about it. They can't tire him out and they can't get him to ease up.

HE NEVER STOPS—

He seems that way about everything. It is a familiar sight to see him and his red-haired secretary on the golf course at Rock Creek park in the capital between 4 and 5 in the morning methodically going around. He plays as many holes as possible until 6:30 or 7 o'clock, returns to his home for breakfast then reaches his office usually at 7:45.

"If I don't get part of my work off by 8:30 in the morning," he told senators objecting to such early

Tax Problems In This State

By M. H. HUNTER

No. 38 Are Townships Necessary
A study of the effectiveness of township organization, made by H. K. Allen of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Illinois, suggests, that counties not having township organization operate more economically than those having the township system. This conclusion is based on the results of a comparison of the per capita property taxes levied in 1929 for county and town purposes in seven pairs of counties. Each pair was selected on a basis of their similarity in size, geographical location, population, and assessed valuation. Also, in each pair a county having township organization was compared with a county having the non-township system.

The pairings were made prior to the per capita computations; and it is rather significant that in each pair the amount of per capita taxes levied was higher under the township system. Moreover, the average for the seven township counties, was $4.36 as compared with $3.25 for the non-township system. The average per capita tax levied for township purposes in the seven counties was $1.15 which, of course, was almost the exact difference in the per capita taxes levied by the two types of administration.

The comparison indicates that counties not having township organization perform all the services rendered under township organization, and yet effect a saving of virtually the whole of the township taxes. This applies, of course, only to the general township levy, since school, roads, cities and village, and special districts have separate tax-levying bodies. It does not include then, any economies which might be effected by a more centralized administration of these functions.

It is true that the township levy is only a small part of the total property tax burden, but the aggregate levy for general township purposes in the entire state is a substantial sum, amounting to more than three million dollars in 1931.

Do you inhale?

"We're not asking you
—we're telling you!"

7 out of 10 smokers inhale knowingly
—the other 3 inhale unknowingly!

DO you inhale? Lucky Strike can meet the issue fairly and squarely. For it has solved the problem. Luckies' famous purifying process removes certain impurities that are concealed in even the choicest, mildest tobacco leaves. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Of course you do. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

And since you do inhale, make sure—make absolutely sure—your cigarette smoke is pure—is clean—that certain impurities have been removed, protect those delicate membranes!
